“While Presidents Day is traditionally a time for Americans to honor the lives of American presidents, it’s also become a mid-winter consumer rite,” explains Paul June, VP of Marketing for Anaheim-based Mobile Edge. “Most federal employees and many state and private business workers get the day off, which means retailers use the holiday as a lead-in to spring sales by offering post-holiday season bargains.”

At Mobile Edge, this means consumers can begin to build or outfit their go-bags by choosing from our handy mobile power accessories and gadgets, or our stylish, full-featured laptop cases and backpacks.

Two of our most popular mobile power accessories include . . .

- The CORE Power AC USB 27,000mAh Portable Laptop Charger, feeds power-hungry laptops and personal electronics. It delivers 85 watts of power, features a standard AC outlet, and meets FAA carry-on requirements.

It combines designer quality materials, fittings, and accents with functionality, organization, and top-notch protection. Plus, the Onyx Backpack is designed to speed travelers through airport screening without having to remove the laptop.
- Like the Onyx Backpack, Mobile Edge's ScanFast™ Checkpoint Friendly Briefcase 2.0 simplifies airport screening. Features include dedicated laptop storage, pockets, and storage for accessories, plus a trolley strap for stacking on other luggage. Eco-minded consumers will like this briefcase, too. The material it's made from requires 30% less energy to make compared to synthetic materials.

Fun Facts About Presidents Day From www.history.com:

- Presidents Day, officially known as Washington's Birthday (in honor of George Washington, the nation's first president), is a federal and state holiday that celebrates everyone who has served as President of the United States.
- Presidents Day is always celebrated on the third Monday of February.
- Following his death in 1799, Washington's actual birthday (which was February 22, 1732), was an unofficial, annual observance until 1885.
- Officially established in 1885, the holiday only became known as Presidents Day following 1971's "Uniform Monday Holiday Act," which sought to create more three-day weekends for workers.
- The Uniform Monday Holiday Act combined the celebration of Washington's birthday (February 22) with Abraham Lincoln's (February 12), to recognize two of America's most famous chief executives.

- While Washington and Abraham Lincoln are the presidents most associated with the holiday, Presidents Day recognizes the lives and achievements of all U.S. presidents.
- Despite the fact that U.S. Presidents Washington, Lincoln, William Henry Harrison, and Ronald Reagan were born in February, Presidents Day never falls on the actual birthday of any American president.
