

Celebrate National Black Movie Day

*National Black Movie Association
Announces Reel HBCU Challenge Winners*

WASHINGTON, DC, USA, February 17, 2022 /EINPresswire.com/ -- The National Black Movie Association announces this year's observance of National Black Movie Day on February 19, 2022. The online announcement and social media celebration will announce this year's Reel Historically Black College and University (HBCU) Challenge Winners. The student filmmakers will each receive a $5000 scholarship for their short film contest submission.

Are You Celebrating National Black Movie Day 2022?

The National Black Movie Day celebration invites movie lovers everywhere to show their support for Black films and Black filmmakers. This year's celebration will feature the role HBCUs play in shaping Black culture and Black stories. The video will be live-streamed on social media and is free to the public. To get additional information on how to participate in National Black Movie Day, visit blackmovieday.com.

“

The National Black Movie Day celebration invites movie lovers everywhere to show their support for Black films and Black filmmakers.”

*Agnes Moss, Founder and President, National Black
Movie Association*

Founder and President of National Black Movie Association, Agnes Moss, shared her excitement for the third celebration of National Black Movie Day saying, “Black films shape and amplify our culture and our stories for not only our community, but the entire world. I created National Black Movie Day as a show of solidarity for the films that matter to our community. We have such a rich legacy in storytelling that educate, inform, and shape our perspectives. From impactful events and extraordinary people who have done amazing things to showcasing our talents and creativity, Black films are critical representations of who we are. It's my hope that National Black Movie Day will be a day we celebrate the greatness of our storytelling on screen.”

In addition to honoring Black films, the organization will reveal this year's three (3) Reel HBCU Challenge Winners, aspiring filmmakers attending Howard University, during the virtual event.

Ms. Moss is proud to increase the number of winners this year saying, "The purpose of the Reel HBCU Challenge is to provide support and resources for aspiring filmmakers who have the passion and talent for filmmaking, but lack the resources to become professional filmmakers. I'm most proud of our investment in these students and invite the community to join us in celebrating them and their work. I'm sure we will hear a lot about them in the future."

For more information on National Black Movie Association and National Black Movie Day, visit blackmovieassociation.org and follow the organization on Facebook and Instagram @NationalBlackMovieDay and on Twitter @BlackMovieDay.

###

About The National Black Movie Association:

The National Black Movie Association was established in 2019 and consists of filmmakers, film stakeholders, and film enthusiasts championing Black films, advocating for diversity and inclusion in the film industry and promoting equity in film education.

Agnes Moss

National Black Movie Association

+1 202-302-9459

email us here

Visit us on social media:

Facebook

Twitter

LinkedIn

Other

This press release can be viewed online at: <https://www.einpresswire.com/article/563320635>

EIN Presswire's priority is source transparency. We do not allow opaque clients, and our editors try to be careful about weeding out false and misleading content. As a user, if you see something we have missed, please do bring it to our attention. Your help is welcome. EIN Presswire, Everyone's Internet News Presswire™, tries to define some of the boundaries that are reasonable in today's world. Please see our Editorial Guidelines for more information.

© 1995-2022 Newsmatics Inc. All Right Reserved.