“Our mission has always been to make everyone who puts on one of our gowns to feel as beautiful as they are,” said Lady Aisha Danzy, Founder & Owner of Fit For A Queen.

“This ribbon cutting is a way to celebrate the entire Atlanta community which has supported us since we opened our doors at our original location in 2015.”

The ribbon cutting will feature special guest, Asya Branch - Miss USA 2020, as well as many of the Miss Georgia USA contestants who are aiming to become the next Miss USA during the Miss Georgia USA Pageant later in the week.

“It is an honor to be attending the grand opening of Atlanta's first Black-owned prom and pageant store,” said Asya Branch, Miss USA 2020. “Being from the South, it is exciting to support growing companies like Fit For A Queen that help make all women feel like royalty and allow the pageant industry to continue to flourish.”

The new location is a two-story, 4,400 square foot facility. The previous location was less than 1,000 square feet with limited parking. The Midtown location will allow them to serve more clients, and for their brand to continue their impressive growth.
