Ryan Zofay, Founder of We Level Up Personal Development Series

WeLevel Up is responding in part to both the growing opioid crisis and its corresponding mental health epidemic in the United States. We're seeing all-time record high drug overdose deaths just recently reported by the CDC. Moreover, we know that COVID-19 isolation, related shutdowns, and restrictions have made a deeply negative impact on the nation's mental health. That coupled with a correlated & explosive drug overdose epidemic throughout the entire nation demands we step up to offer more help. The New Jersey Rehab Addiction Treatment Center is dedicated to offering a full continuum of care from initial Medical Detox, Inpatient Rehab, and Alumni aftercare.

Expansion into Newly Renovated & Improved Lawrenceville, New Jersey Rehab Treatment Facility

This month, We Level Up Treatment Center will expand from its South Florida roots to provide an additional facility option. That is more convenient to clients in the Northeast with a newly renovated and improved building for its clients from New Jersey and beyond. The new facility will include integrated medical detox and addiction rehabilitation. The new center will accommodate both clinical facilities and client residences. This expansion will add additional treatment beds, allowing more individuals in the New Jersey, New York, Connecticut, and Pennsylvania area to obtain the high-quality lifesaving drug & alcohol treatment they deserve.

“We Level Up is a trusted behavioral health care provider to the people of Florida and many more communities beyond our local area. Our organization continues to invest in growing both access and quality care

As of June 2020, 13% of Americans reported starting or increasing substance use as a way of coping with stress or emotions related to COVID-19. Overdoses have also spiked since the onset of the pandemic. A reporting system called ODMAP shows that the early months of the pandemic brought an 18% increase nationwide in overdoses compared with those same months in 2019.

This facility is part of a large multi-million dollar investment the company is making in providing more access to care across the country. Comprehensive inpatient treatment will be provided for adults and seniors that grapple with serious indications of alcohol and drug addiction requiring robust inpatient and/or detox treatment.

New Jersey Alcohol and Drug Abuse Treatment Centers

Detoxing is the first step in drug rehab and drug addiction treatment, however, it can be a difficult process. Drug rehab centers provide support to make this process easier for addicts to get through withdrawal symptoms successfully. Detoxification medications are sometimes used during drug detox if an addict has developed severe drug dependence and cannot go through with detox without using specific withdrawal drugs like medication or medication-assisted therapy (MAT). The NJ MAT program allows for combining specific drug replacement therapies with drug rehabilitation programs to create a comprehensive treatment plan that will help the addict stay clean long term.

After detoxing from alcohol, drug rehab centers use a variety of treatments for alcohol addiction including cognitive-behavioral therapy (CBT), motivational interviewing (MI), contingency management (CM), drug replacement therapy, acceptance, and commitment therapy (ACT) as well as traditional 12 step programs such as Alcoholics Anonymous.

Alcohol Abuse

Alcohol abuse is a serious issue in the United States, and according to the CDC, there are more than 14 million alcoholics in the US. Alcoholism can be a very difficult addiction to overcome, but drug rehab centers have the knowledge and expertise needed to help those who are struggling with alcoholism to get back on their feet.

Drug Abuse

According to the CDC, there were over 44 million drug users in the US and almost 2 million drug addicts who needed professional help due to their addiction. There are a number of rehab centers available to those struggling with drug addiction, but it's important that those searching for treatment find an alcohol and drug rehab center that is equipped to meet their specific needs and goals for recovery.

Consequences of the Opioid Crisis

Millions of adults in America are impacted by the opioid crisis every year. It's significant to gauge how prevalent addiction is, therefore, we can appreciate its health, physical, social, and economic influence. These figures can be compelling means to raise public knowledge, stop the stigmatization of the illness, stop wrongful shaming, and advance improved treatment.

- Over 70% of drug overdose deaths in 2019 involved an opioid
- Overdoses involving opioids killed nearly 50,000 people in 2019, and nearly 73% of those deaths involved synthetic opioids
- Nearly 500,000 people died from overdoses involving any opioid, including prescription and illicit opioids, from 1999-2019

Costs of America's Opioid Crisis

The National Center for Biotechnology Information (NCBI) reports that drug abuse costs the US an estimated $78.5 billion a year, including healthcare expenditures, lost productivity, addiction treatment, and criminal justice involvement.

According to the Centers for Disease Control and Prevention (CDC), drug overdose was involved in more than 38,000 deaths in 2014, which is about 63 percent of drug-related deaths in 2015, with opioids accounting for the majority of drug overdose deaths. Opioid pain relievers were responsible for 18,893 drug overdose deaths in 2014 which increased to 20, 844 drug overdose deaths involving opioid pain relievers in 2015 (numbers do not include heroin).
