Webbing Market

Webbing is a strong, woven textile that is manufactured and designed in different forms to be used in carrying straps, belts and harnesses. It is made from various fibers, which include strands of polyester or nylon woven on a loom for creating flat strips. Webbing is of two types, namely, flat and tubular webbing. It helps in relacing rope, chain and steel wire in both industrial and non-industrial applications. Webbing is extensively found in hiking and camping and military gear.
