

Brandon Heath Releases His First Centricity Music Album, Enough Already, April 22

Album Is Available To Preorder Now; Lead Single "See Me Through It" Ascends Billboard Radio Charts; Heath Climbs Mt. Kilimanjaro

NASHVILLE, TENNESSEE, UNITED STATES, February 25, 2022 /EINPresswire.com/ -- Five-time GRAMMY®-nominated, eight-time Dove Award-winning Brandon Heath releases his first full-length, Centricity Music album, Enough Already, April 22. Available to pre-buy / pre-save now, the album features the top 25 and climbing NCA Monitored Billboard radio hit, "See Me Through It," and eight more tracks that find Heath writing and recording for the first time with multiple producers and songwriters.

Teaming with GRAMMY-nominated producers Jordan Sapp and Jeff Pardo plus Apollo LTD, Kyle Williams (We Are Messengers) and Christian Hale, Heath also brought in Doug Weier, Nick Rad and five-time GRAMMY winner Dave Clauss to mix select Enough Already tracks. He further collaborated with multiple songwriters, co-writing with producers Hale, Williams and Apollo LTD's Jordan Phillips and Adam Stark along with Paul Duncan, Ross King, Jonathan Smith, Mallery Hope, Molly Reed Grayson, Heather Morgan and GRAMMY Award winning Ran Jackson.

"I've heard it said before that music is medicine, but I don't see myself as a pharmacist. I don't see myself as a healer. But what I do see myself as is a sharer," says Heath, a storyteller whose songwriting grapples with faith and doubt simultaneously. "I can't sit down and write a prescription for anybody, but I can share some of my own pain and my own perspective, and that connection, I think, is what makes people feel the healing."

In his music, Heath is intentional to not shy away from the hard parts of his story. Instead, he hopes he brings a newfound honesty and wisdom to his songs that come from decades-worth of life experience.

“I feel like I’m building a repertoire that will be my legacy,” Heath says, adding, “Outside the realm of being a husband and dad, I have not yet found a better feeling than creating a song and then one day randomly hearing what that song that I wrote is doing in somebody’s life. Nothing compares to that. Nothing.”

That includes Heath’s recent experience climbing to the top of Mt. Kilimanjaro last month with Young Life Developing Global Leaders. As a part of Young Life while in high school, this outreach organization became an outlet for Heath to share his songs and burgeoning musical talent.

“I was singing songs for them over the summer,” remembers Heath during a The 700 Club interview. “I’d take my guitar and lead club songs, which are usually songs you hear on the radio, but then I’d start singing a couple of my own songs...”

From those foundational beginnings, the seeds of Heath’s new songs were planted in his backyard, a place where he has spent a good portion of time over the past year thinking, praying and mowing his steep plot of land that includes a small creek, a play set for his young daughters and a fire pit for the men’s group that meets at his house. Essentially, his backyard is the place where his next album has grown.

Ironically, when the pandemic shut down touring in 2020, Heath spent an unexpected amount of time in other people’s backyards. He decided to play small, safe outdoor shows by invitation-only in select backyards across the country. These “Brandon in the Backyard” dates were so enjoyable that Heath is making plans now to play an additional 30 backyards this spring and summer. Traveling with his family in an RV, Heath leads these events with his guitar; and more times than not, he’s completely unplugged.

Playing his hits and fan favorites, Heath will also play cuts from Enough Already while on tour. The full new album track listing follows:

- 1) Human Nature
- 2) Minute By Minute
- 3) This Changes Everything
- 4) That's Enough
- 5) See Me Through It
- 6) Another Song About Love
- 7) He Is Not Worried
- 8) Enough Already
- 9) Human Nature (Acoustic)
