Market Size, Trends, And Global
Forecast 2022-2026' published by The Business Research Company, the refined petroleum products market size is expected to grow from $2,311.84 billion in 2021 to $2,614.48 billion in 2022 at a compound annual growth rate (CAGR) of 13.1%. The growth in the market is mainly due to the companies rearranging their operations and recovering from the COVID-19 impact, which had earlier led to restrictive containment measures involving social distancing, remote working, and the closure of commercial activities that resulted in operational challenges. As per TBRC's refined petroleum products market research the market is expected to reach $4,171.34 billion in 2026 at a CAGR of 12.4%. Refineries are increasingly adopting carbon capture and storage techniques to reduce CO2 emission levels in the atmosphere.

The global refined petroleum products market consists of sales of refined petroleum products by entities (organizations, sole traders or partnerships) that convert crude petroleum to refined petroleum products such as gasoline, naphtha, diesel fuel and liquefied petroleum gas and then sell these refined products. Petroleum refineries are large industrial complexes with extensive pipeline networks carrying crude oil and refined petroleum products between sub processing units. Revenues in this market represent the value of the different refined petroleum products.

To reduce the pollution levels, companies have started adopting the gas to liquid technology which produces high quality petroleum products. The gas to liquid technology is the conversion of natural gas to high quality liquid products such as transportation fuels, motor oils, naphtha, diesel and waxes. This technology uses natural gas as a substitute to crude oil as gas is considered to be the cleanest burning fossil fuel and is abundant, versatile and easily affordable. The by- products obtained by using the GTL technology are colorless, odorless and contain negligible amounts of impurities.
