

TOXIC INFANT FORMULA REMINDER: LAWSUIT FILED AGAINST MAKERS OF ENFAMIL AND SIMILAC

HENDERSONVILLE, TN, UNITED STATES, March 1, 2022 /EINPresswire.com/ -- Nationally recognized class action lawyer Timothy L. Miles of the Law Offices of Timothy L. Miles, reminds parents that a wrongful death lawsuit has been filed against the makers of Similac, alleging that the baby formula caused necrotizing enterocolitis (NEC), a serious intestinal disease that resulted in the death of a premature infant. The lawsuit points out that NEC has been linked to formula being fed to preterm infants since at least 1990, at which point a study indicated feeding them formula exclusively increased the risk of the ailment by up to a factor of 10, when compared to those given breast milk alone. A number of similar studies have followed through the years, and in 2012 the American Academy of Pediatrics warned that all premature infants should be fed human breast milk exclusively.

We urge anyone with a child that has developed NEC as a result of their baby formula to contact us immediately.”

TOXIC INFANT FORMULA REMINDER: LAWSUIT FILED AGAINST MAKERS OF ENFAMIL AND SIMILAC

Necrotizing enterocolitis is a digestive disease that occurs primarily in premature infants and can cause inflammation of the intestinal lining, which can lead to serious infections. In such cases, the inflamed intestinal wall is eventually eroded away, which allows bacteria to enter the intestinal tract and jeopardize the health of the infant. Most infants survive the disease with serious, long-term injuries, but in more extreme cases infants may pass away. According to the scientific study, both Similac and Enfamil products have been linked to NEC in premature babies.
