

NAMMBA Announces Continued Partnership with Certified Credit

The National Association of Minority Mortgage Bankers of America (NAMMBA) announces that as of today it will renew its partnership with Certified Credit.

ORLANDO, FL, UNITED STATES, March 31, 2022 /EINPresswire.com/ -- The National Association of Minority Mortgage Bankers of America (NAMMBA) announces that as of today it will renew its partnership with Certified Credit. As one of NAMMBA's earliest partners and a woman-owned business, Certified Credit has spent many years helping to advance NAMMBA's various missions and priorities.

“We can’t do the work we do without partnering with companies like Certified Credit,” says NAMMBA Founder/CEO J. Tony Thompson, CMB. “Their commitment not only to their workplace culture but also to the surrounding community demonstrates that Certified knows that there is strength in cultivating a diverse workforce. Diverse in background, ideas, ethnicity, and experiences, Certified Credit provides a blueprint for others in our industry as they look towards the future. Thank you, Lucy Kereta-Block and the entire Certified team, for your collaboration.”

We can’t do the work we do without partnering with companies like Certified Credit.”

NAMMBA Founder/CEO Tony Thompson, CMB

NAMMBA's partnership with Certified Credit brings NAMMBA closer to their mission of increasing the engagement of women and minorities in the mortgage industry. The mortgage industry is historically homogeneous and NAMMBA hopes that this partnership will be just a small part of the path to changing that.
