

Prominent Palm Beach Philanthropists Commit Time, Talent, And Treasure To Establish Centennial Endowment

WEST PALM BEACH, FLORIDA, USA, March 3, 2022 /EINPresswire.com/ -- Members of the "Ambassador's Circle" of The Salvation Army of Palm Beach recently met and committed their time, talent, and treasure to help establish the organization's Centennial Endowment Fund. The Endowment Fund is one of many programs and events that The Army has scheduled to help celebrate its 100-year anniversary of charitable service in Palm Beach County.

The prominent Palm Beach philanthropists were hosted by the Honorable Beverly White Yeager at her Palm Beach Home with the purpose of discussing how the Circle could effectively promote The Salvation Army's brand, programs, and activities. In addition to Yeager, the Circle of distinguished women currently includes the Honorable Mary Mochary, Kathryn C. Vecellio, Holly Holden, Suzanne Mott Dansby, Paula Mikus, and Paula Butler.

"I am elated by the gracious commitment of the Ambassador's Circle to help promote the brand, programs, and activities of The Salvation Army of Palm Beach County," said The Honorable Beverly White Yeager. "The Circle is proud to be among the first of 100 prominent leaders who are willing to pledge their financial support to help the organization continue to 'Do the Most Good' for another 100 years in our Palm Beach Community."

"We are honored to have such incredible women as members of the Ambassador's Circle," said Area Commanders Majors James and Leisa Hall. "We are additionally grateful for the expertise and support they will bring to The Salvation Army of Palm Beach County."
