LOS ANGELES, CALIFORNIA, UNITED STATES, March 3, 2022

/EINPresswire.com/ -- Los Angeles-based royal commentator and the founder of ToDiForDaily.com, Kinsey Schofield, has launched the To Di For Daily podcast. Episode one kicks off with 'Scandals of the Royal Palaces' author Tom Quinn. Quinn exclusively reveals to Schofield that Prince Harry and Meghan Markle might be looking to revisit their relationship with the royal family once Prince Charles ascends to the throne. "Both Meghan and Harry believe that when the elder royals die," says Quinn, "They may well be able to come back and be the part-time royals that they really wanted to be."

The author also discusses conversations he's had with Kensington Palace staff and how the Duchess of Sussex's behavior differed from Princess Diana's: "That was another contrast that various servants said to me about the difference between Meghan and Diana. I think Meghan was always worried that people wouldn't treat her as if she really was a member of the royal family. So she was overly harsh and got cross with the servants."

This is the ultimate podcast for fans of the British royal family.”

Additionally, Schofield and Quinn debate whether the powers that be within the palace might be trying to change the Charles, Diana, and Camilla narrative ahead of the Duchess of Cornwall becoming Queen Consort: "I'm absolutely convinced that Diana did not cheat first. I think she was really in love with Charles. She was very innocent then swept up by the heir to the throne.”

Interviews previously exclusive to ToDiForDaily.com are also now available to stream including conversations with authors Andrew Morton and Christopher Andersen. Both interviews made headlines around the globe.

The To Di For Daily podcast cover art was designed by famed pop artist, Analy Diego. The cover features a photo of Kinsey Schofield in the Duchess of Cambridge's go-to tiara, the Cambridge Lover's Knot, and Princess Diana's notorious black sheep sweater.
