The global computer peripheral equipment market size is expected to grow from $666.29 billion in 2021 to $704.73 billion in 2022 at a compound annual growth rate (CAGR) of 5.8%. The growth in the market is mainly due to the companies rearranging their operations and recovering from the COVID-19 impact, which had earlier led to restrictive containment measures involving social distancing, remote working, and the closure of commercial activities that resulted in operational challenges. The computer peripheral equipment market is expected to reach $839.64 billion in 2026 at a CAGR of 4.5%.

Data volume generated from personal devices and various business operations in many industries is rapidly increasing; this is expected to drive the demand for storage devices during the forecast period. For instance, the total data generated worldwide is projected to reach 163 zettabytes (ZB) by 2025. In order to manage this rising data volume, the demand for storage devices from both corporate and individual customers is expected to drive the computer peripheral equipment market in the forecast period.

TBRC's global computer peripheral equipment industry analysis report is segmented by type into mouse, keyboard, monitor, printer, scanner, by connectivity into wired, wireless, by end-use into residential, commercial.
