Key Takeaways

- The pediatric palliative care drugs market is anticipated to grow at a CAGR of 5.1% during the forecast period owing to the increasing research and development activities to develop efficient drugs for children. For instance, in January 2022, the U.S. Centers for Disease Control and Prevention (CDC) reported that the Pfizer-BioNTech COVID-19 vaccine has shown mild complications in children aged 5 to 11 years.
- Across the geographical horizons, the North American region is estimated to emerge as a clear leader in the global pediatric palliative care drugs market on the heels of growing drug approvals and increasing cases of bleeding disorders.
- Coming in at number two in this timeframe should be the Asia Pacific region, which is augmenting the global pediatric palliative care drugs market on account of high demand from the pharmaceutical sector, increasing government initiatives, and an increasing caseload of malnutrition.
