Aggressive Equipment Clamshell

Established in 2002, Aggressive is recognized for engineering the most durable pipe cutters and attachments in the industry. Their extensive line of ancillary components, along with the safety features and durability, allows this equipment to accomplish the toughest applications presented in the industry.

According to Al Shiyou, CEO and Chairman of SPR, "The Aggressive clamshell is one of the top designed clamshells in the industry, proven as extremely durable and reliable. They also carry the most extensive line of ancillary products to perform in all areas of pipe cutting, from standard to extreme wall thickness. The hands free/remote option on the clamshells will be a huge advantage for our customers as hands free operations of rotating equipment is becoming more of a demand. We are excited to add Aggressive to the SPR family and look forward to meeting the needs of their customers across the U.S."
