that none of the accused Genie® brand products infringe the asserted claims of the Chamberlain patents, and the jury also found that the asserted claims of the '404 and '011 patents were invalid.

We are thankful for the jury's thorough consideration of the facts and look forward to continuing to serve our customers with the type of quality and innovative products for which Genie is well known."

Mike Kridel, President of The Genie Company

According to Mike Kridel, President of The Genie Company: "We are pleased that the jury cleared Genie of Chamberlain's claims for patent infringement. We regarded the entire lawsuit as an effort to retaliate against us for pursuing the meritorious claims for patent infringement that we brought against Chamberlain in the International Trade Commission, which recently confirmed that Chamberlain's various products infringe three of our patents. We are thankful for the jury's thorough consideration of the facts and look forward to continuing to serve our customers with the type of quality and innovative products for which Genie is well known."
