Workspace-as-a-Service (WaaS) is a sort of desktop virtualization used by businesses to give their employees access to data from any location, at any time. Enterprises enable access to company apps via an employee's preferred electronic device. Furthermore, the introduction of workspace-as-a-service solutions has allowed businesses to assist their employees with logging in to the service and gaining access to a virtual desktop environment. This functions like an employees office desktop. Employees have been more productive as a result of the solution.
