Mayor L.E. "Boze" Godwin

Godwin, a pharmacist by trade, has been Mayor of Plains for 39 years and governed the Democratic-leaning town, the home of former president, as a conservative Republican.

"There's so much waste and vice in Washington and I think people are fed up with it," said Godwin. "I'm not concerned about it for myself, I'm concerned for my kids and grandkids and now my great-grandkids."

"Boze is a dear friend, but that wouldn't be enough for an endorsement if he didn't believe I shared his values and could get the job done for the people in the 2nd District," Johnson said. "I'm proud to have his support and determined to bring some common sense to Washington and 'stop the stupid' that runs amok up there."

"It's time all citizens in Plains and the surrounding community had someone who will care about their kitchen-table issues.”
