Key Highlights in Q1

Global Capability Centres or Offshore Development Centres have helped global enterprises combat the digital wave. As a result, an increasing number of global enterprises are flocking to India given our top-notch IT talent and affordable operating costs.

We have worked around big multinational companies, start-ups, and open source professionals who were keen to tap local talent.

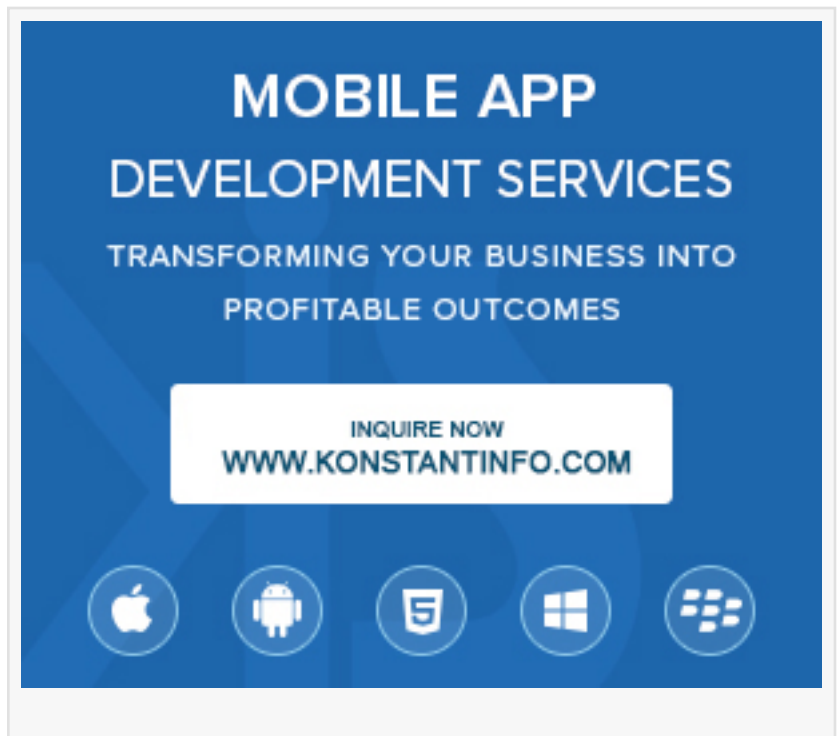

We banked upon the possibility of several start-ups and prominent multinational companies setting up technology and innovation centres in India, with plans to hire hundreds.

Key Reasons for This Recognition

Companies that were in contention for this listing had to comply with thorough criteria of requirements to justify their inclusion. This criterion includes industry reputation, online presence, cost of application development, and client feedback.

We have nurtured our software development experts to the point that now we are considered as a world-class destination for such services. The companies included in this list have proven that in the past twelve months and will continue to do so well into the future.
