AUSTIN, TEXAS, UNITED STATES, March 23, 2022 /EINPresswire.com/ --

Boostlingo announced it has acquired Interpreter Intelligence, a leader in interpretation management technology, and VoiceBoxer, which offers remote simultaneous interpreting, or RSI.

The combination of Boostlingo, Interpreter Intelligence and VoiceBoxer will fuel innovation, and provide a broader and even better experience for customers. With these transactions, Boostlingo becomes a one stop shop for customers to schedule interpreting in whatever format is most convenient for them — whether that is in person, video, phone, or remote simultaneous interpretation. Additionally, language service providers will now be able to offer these wide-ranging interpretation options through Boostlingo's on-demand interpretation delivery, management and scheduling products.

The acquisitions of Interpreter Intelligence and VoiceBoxer will allow us to meet the growing demand for interpretation solutions in whatever format the customer chooses.”

“Interpreter Intelligence and VoiceBoxer are dedicated to providing better language access and improved global communication, just as we are at Boostlingo,” said Bryan Forrester, CEO of Boostlingo. “The acquisitions of Interpreter Intelligence and VoiceBoxer will allow us to meet the growing demand for interpretation solutions in whatever format the customer chooses.”

Interpreter Intelligence's platform processes more bookings and invoices than any other in the language service industry. It also provides solutions for video and phone interpretation with on-demand options.

“We are thrilled to join the Boostlingo team. They have worked hard to transform the interpretation industry, just like us,” said Conor Power, Founder and CEO of Interpreter

Intelligence. "This transaction is great news for our employees and our customers. Boostlingo shares our philosophy and vision, and we are excited to help expand their industry-leading solutions."

VoiceBoxer is the first of its kind simultaneous interpretation delivery platform (SIDP) which allows for real-time interpretation for remote and hybrid events. VoiceBoxer also maintains a large partner network to provide RSI interpreter resources.

"This acquisition is an important step for our company and for the interpretation market as a whole," said VoiceBoxer Founder and CEO Sergio Llorian. "Joining forces with Boostlingo allows us to accelerate innovation while maintaining our focus on service and collaboration with language services professionals."

The companies' two founders — Conor Power of Interpreter Intelligence, and Sergio Llorian of VoiceBoxer — will remain with Boostlingo in senior roles. Power will serve as Vice President of Engineering. Llorian will serve as President of EMEA and RSI.

Boostlingo is the leader in on-demand interpretation, virtual interpretation, and interpretation management technology. The company helps customers save time, decrease costs, enhance language access for more communities, and make interpretation easy to use. Boostlingo has now expanded its reach even further with the acquisition of Interpreter Intelligence and VoiceBoxer.

"The combination of Boostlingo, VoiceBoxer, and Interpreter Intelligence represents a fundamental shift in the interpretation technology marketplace," said Bobby Lahiere, Founder & CEO of SpokenHere Language Services. "Virtual has disrupted the industry in the past two years and Boostlingo is now poised to emerge from the disruption as a market leader prepared for the future of interpretation technology."
