

David Arn collaborates with Canadian stop-motion animator, Jenna Provost, to produce multi-award-winning music video

FREDERICK, MARYLAND, UNITED STATES, March 22, 2022 /EINPresswire.com/ -- The video, "Losing Track of Kimberly", is the story of a teenager who regrets her decision to become a runaway. It has been screened worldwide and the list of awards keeps growing. It's won Best Music Video at London Movie Awards, Official Selection of The New York Movie Awards, Silver Award at The Hollywood Gold Awards, Official Selection of Paris Movie Awards, The Hollywood Independent Filmmaker Awards, Dublin Film Festival (semi-finalist), Official Selection at the Toronto International Women Film Festival and the Richmond International Film and Music Festival (June 7-12).

"Discovering Jenna's talent was my good fortune," Arn said. "Originally we were set to film with real actors in Ottawa but Covid changed all that. I reached out to Jenna. She had so many brilliant ideas of how to render the story through stop-motion I knew it would elevate the project to a new level.

When we got a glimpse of her first few scenes there were high-fives all around the room".

The song is complete with soulful adlibs from vocalist Tyra Juliette who has performed at The Grammys, The Oscars, The Voice, and has toured the world singing with Demi Lovato, Keith Urban, and Kid Rock. The song and video arrive for all to see on March 22nd.
