I have no doubt that my background combined with my wife's background in condo management will enhance our territory and provide a way for us to build our client base quickly here in Miami.”

Benito Rodriguez, Mosquito Mary's Franchisee

The newest franchisee to take the helm is Benito Jaime Rodriguez. Hailing from his hometown of Pucon, located in South Chile, Rodriguez is eager to launch his Mosquito Mary's territory this spring and begin a new career here in the States. “Currently, I have a thriving transportation business in Chile, but my family and I were seeking a new opportunity in the U.S.,” stated Rodriguez. Rodriguez brings an impressive background to the network, infusing his work ethic and business experience into the new Miami territory. “My education includes metal construction plus hands-on work experience and business management within my transportation company,” asserted Rodriguez. “I have no doubt that my background combined with my wife's background in condo management will enhance our territory and provide a way for us to build our client base quickly here in Miami.”

According to the corporate franchise website, Mosquito Mary's gives its franchisees ongoing support, field training, and marketing guidance throughout the life of the franchise agreement. The company also asserts itself as one of the lowest franchise fees in the industry. The Miami territory will be the company's 33rd location.
