□□□□□-□□ □□□□□□□□:

- COVID-19 has accelerated the demand for nasal sprays which can be used at home with self-administration with ease and also refilling of the medication can be easily done at home itself. These factors improve the demand for the market post-COVID-19. Disruptions of raw materials used for making sprays have caused a hurdle for the market during COVID-19 pandemic.
- The consequences of lockdown and government-enforced restrictions as a result of the coronavirus pandemic have, of course, been felt heavily by businesses across all industries. Both the private healthcare sector and health businesses, which rely on close physical contact with their clients, have been significantly affected.
- Many small hospitals, clinics and nursing homes have been forced to shut their operations. Social distancing and localized curfews have resulted in delayed procedures. In addition, visa cancellations have led to a hiatus in medical tourism and can negatively impact market growth.
