

Squaretalk and Mobile XL join forces to boost sales and customer care teams' efficiency via automated CRM integration

Netherlands-based Zoho customers of all sizes now can easily automate their cloud communications

AMSTERDAM, NETHERLANDS, March 24, 2022 /EINPresswire.com/ -- Squaretalk, the leading cloud contact center provider, announced a strategic partnership with Mobile XL, a Netherlands-based software solution provider and Premium Zoho partner with a track record of successfully guiding large businesses through their digital transformation journey.

The partnership enables the Zoho CRM users community to leverage unique Squaretalk industry-leading technology aimed at helping fast-growing medium and large organizations and their employees become more efficient in managing customer interactions.

Implementing software goes much further than just delivering software solutions. Analyzing, optimizing and automating processes adds value for companies in their innovation and growth trajectory"

"Our collaboration with Mobile XL increases Squaretalk's presence on the Netherlands market making it easier and more convenient for Dutch business owners and entrepreneurs to create a unified communications experience with customer interactions within all Zoho products. This way, organizations can improve user experience, boost the effectiveness of conversations, and provide faster and better service", said Elie Rubin, CEO of Squaretalk.

"Implementing software goes much further than just delivering software solutions. Analyzing, optimizing and automating processes is our added value for companies in their innovation and growth trajectory. Integrating Zoho business software with Squaretalk Contact Center platform is providing a unique benefit and convenience for our clients and their teams," said Raymond Hewitt, owner/founder of Mobile XL.
