Through the website, writers of all types and skill levels now have a digital hub to learn about the craft of writing, the art and science of editing, and the business of book publishing through self-guided and live streaming video courses.

The site is an expansion of Book Puma Editorial Services, which offers traditional development and

“The idea behind Book Puma is to help as many writers as possible,” said Book Puma and BHP founder and President Charles D’Amico. “We can only impact so many authors by publishing books through Blue Handle. But through our online courses and editing services, we can aid anyone involved in the rapidly changing publishing business.”

BookPumaOnline offers its MasterClass-style courses as standalone purchases or via a $7.99 monthly subscription. Its instructors include award-winning authors, veteran copy editors, industry experts, and professional academics.
