I look forward to helping lead our association into what we hope is the post-COVID era. Today's market is marked by rising prices and limited supply, which makes it harder on the public.”

“I look forward to helping lead our association into what we hope is the post-COVID era. The Realtors we represent strive to provide the services, tools and protections their clients need everyday to safely navigate the housing market,” said John. “Today's market is marked by rising prices and limited supply, which makes it harder on the public. I look forward to working with our members, our staff, our industry, and government to make REBGV part of the solution to help increase housing supply and develop evidenced-based rules that support people on both sides of the real estate transaction.”

Daniel John has been a Realtor since 2005. He was first elected to REBGV's Board of Directors in 2018. Daniel is the Program Head of the Professional Real Estate diploma program at the British Columbia Institute of Technology and a real estate instructor at Langara College. He also holds his professional R.I. Designation from the Real Estate Institute of BC and carries the ICD.D designation from the Institute of Corporate Directors. He's volunteered with organizations such as the Richmond School District, Steveston Community Centre, and the REBGV Blanket Drive.
