

NEST CASA Celebrates Women's History Month With Its Founder Sara Colombo

An incredible journey that inspires women of today and tomorrow

NEST CASA is celebrating Women's History Month with a nod to its founder Sara Colombo, sharing her inspiring journey of exquisite tastes and business acumen.

Sara Colombo made her mark internationally as a successful model, who traveled the world and ruled the runways. Her travels also allowed her the opportunity to develop a refined taste in interiors and accessories. As she made her homes in Paris and London, she became closely acquainted with the aesthetics and workmanship of beautiful European interiors, furnishing, and décor.

It would later become the inspiration for her home with husband and developer Ugo Colombo and of course NEST CASA, which became the go-to name for interior designers and homeowners alike. The brand has become one of a kind design leader in the business that is known for its unique upholstery, custom finishes, custom sizes, and delivering on the promise of individualized requests of its customers.

NEST CASA - Sara Colombo

Sara Colombo has set the bar high for the interiors industry with her unique and stunning masterpieces that have become must-haves with homeowners today. Meanwhile, she currently serves as the Chair of the Board of Trustees at the Cushman School in Miami. She has also played an active role with Best Buddies International for a few years now and has added many feathers to her illustrious cap.

Her NEST CASA has become the premier source of stunning European home décor and accessories that are exquisitely crafted. Its highly curated items are made in Italy, South America, Belgium, etc., and spell luxury for clients' homes. Some of the options available in the collection include Baobab Candles which have made their mark with people around the world. They are encased in hand-blown containers and decorated with unique patterns.

Packed with rich notes of scents and colors, these candles transport people to Africa with their authenticity and attention to detail. There are many such gorgeous items in store for customers who want to raise the bar with the interiors of their homes. Every small detail and touch to a home can make a world of difference to its overall look. And the design leader has it all covered for its clients around the world.

Its collection includes the Hermes Blanket, which is no less than a work of art. Bringing the quality of one of the most cherished design brands, the blanket along with the Hermes Throw, are quite simply luxury redefined. And that's something one can say about Sara Colombo as well. With her nuanced eye for European craftsmanship, décor, furnishings, and other unique design items, she has redefined luxury for interiors, raised the bar, and has paved the way for others to follow.

About NEST CASA
