“We have trading courses designed to transform novices into experts. And to show that we are not just after their money, published learning methods to help facilitate the learning process of intending traders. Value for money is our mantra and we prove it all the time.” Shakur Abdirahman, CEO

Financial markets must be studied and trading in the financial markets must be learned. Learning how to trade isn't something you just wake up to do.

90% of traders don't succeed because they lose their money in the market. Also, 80% of traders quit trading within the first few years of trading. These statistics are due to either faulty training or personal issues of the traders.

The need to give top-notch training to traders cannot be overemphasized. The training is also a means to further help them grow out of the wrong mindsets and psychology about money.

That's why Perfect Your Trading created an info-graphic about how to study effectively. It's like a double-edged sword. The aim is to make sure you focus on learning how to FOCUS TO STUDY EFFECTIVELY.

Here are the points touched on:

- Research skills and related topics
- Jump in over your head.

- Identify mental models and mental hooks
- Talk to practitioners to set expectations
- Obtain critical tools
- Eliminate distractions in your environment.
- Use spaced repetition and reinforcement for memorization
- Create scaffolds and checklists.
- Practice by the clock in short bursts.
- Honor your biology.

Traders should check it out and get what it takes to commence their journey to financial freedom.
