

Indus Travels Launches New Destination for Tours — Saudi Arabia

Saudi Arabia is a rapidly rising travel destination, and Indus Travels is launching new tours with value and affordability in mind.

VANCOUVER, BRITISH COLUMBIA, CANADA, April 7, 2022

/EINPresswire.com/ -- As a rapidly rising travel destination, Saudi Arabia has been increasingly attracting attention from travelers all around the world. It's clear the country is transforming on various levels, which travelers are frequently noting upon returning from their trips. In light of recent changes, Indus Travels is officially launching new tours to Saudi Arabia, designed with affordability and exceptional experiences for travelers in mind.

What Do Travelers Need to Visit Saudi Arabia?

Both vaccinated and unvaccinated travelers from the United States and Canada can visit Saudi Arabia without presenting COVID-related travel documents. No testing or quarantine requirements are required. However, travelers will need to show proof of vaccination to enter public places in Saudi Arabia, including government and private establishments and public transportation.

Travelers will also need to demonstrate a visitor's visa, which can most easily be obtained by applying online or upon arriving in the country. They will need to travel with mandatory health insurance that covers the cost of COVID-19 treatment, complete a mandatory registration form prior to departure, complete a health disclaimer form that will be submitted upon arrival, and download the Tawakkalna mobile app for contact tracing. This app will also be required for entry at some private establishments and museums.
