COVID-19 scenario

Companies are trying to manage lost income and disrupted supply chains due to industrial facility shutdown, quarantine, lockdown implemented across the globe. With coronavirus impacting numerous segments, including venture advancements, development works, assembling, and travel/tourisms, interest for crude materials, for example, oil and coal has dropped and costs are declining. These factors further influence new projects in the volute pump market growth.

Furthermore, the outbreak of COVID-19 has resulted in lack of new developments in energy, gas, and oil sectors, leading to sluggish demand for volute pump across the globe. On the contrary, hygiene, medical, and pharmaceutical industries are expected to witness considerable growth due to significant role played by these pumps in piping system and making processes efficient. This is further expected to create potential opportunities for the market expansion in the near future.
