FLORIDA, FLORIDA, UNITED STATES, April 5, 2022 /EINPresswire.com/ -- After three years, Roberto Carlos - the idol of the romantic song of Latin America - is returning to the stage. The Brazilian artist chose Miami to stage the first show of his tour that will take him through 12 cities in the United States. The tour is set to begin on April 22 during the week of his birthday (April 19), a date chosen by him to celebrate his 81 years of life and of doing what he likes most - singing live to his fans.

This first date of the tour, announced by Loud And Live, Move Concerts and DC Set, will take place at the FTX Arena in Miami. Other cities scheduled for the U.S. leg are Orlando, Atlanta, Washington, Boston, Chicago, New York, Dallas, Houston, McAllen, El Paso and Los Angeles. performances are what makes me happiest in my career," says the Brazilian singer-songwriter who has been called The King of Latin Music. "Knowing that I will be close to my beloved audience again excites me and fills me with joy. On stage I feel more alive than anywhere else."

Roberto Carlos, 60 years of an award-winning, musical career:

Roberto Carlos is considered one of the main representatives of the romantic ballad. With a career stretching back more than six decades and about 150 million records sold, Roberto Carlos is one of the most successful recording artists of all time. He has received every award a global artist can aspire to, including: a GRAMMY® Award; two Latin GRAMMY® Awards; Person of the Year from the Latin Recording Academy; Lo Nuestro® Award; Crystal Globe; Billboard® Lifetime Achievement Award; ASCAP® Award; and UNICEF® Award, among others. A really remarkable fact is that Roberto Carlos is the first and only artist from Brazil to record at least one album every year of his career - and in some years - albums in English, French and Italian.
