“After two years apart, it was very exciting to see our breast cancer community come together again,” said Tia Isoff-Celestin, Development Director, Susan G. Komen, Florida. “The impact every single one of us can make when we walk one more step and raise one more dollar unites us in making certain that no one faces breast cancer alone.”

More than 500 Walgreens employees participated in the walk, representing 350 stores across central and northern Florida. The company, which was the top fundraiser for the event, raised over $100,000 through in-store checkout fundraising and special “pinks days.” Walgreens has been collaborating with Susan G. Komen since 2019 and is a national series sponsor, having pledged millions to the cause through 2024.

“Partnering with Susan G. Komen has been a rewarding and engaging experience,” said Tanya Rice, Greater Orlando District Manager of Walgreens. “Our Walgreens team members absolutely love the opportunity to support such an important cause and make a difference in the lives of those affected with breast cancer locally.”

Susan G. Komen hosted three MORE THAN PINK Walks throughout Florida this past year. The annual events bring together a community of hope and compassion to raise funds to save lives from breast cancer. Funds raised support Komen's advocacy, research investments and support of people facing breast cancer today, ensuring everyone can get the care they need to live.
