business and the crypto space, Ian brings extensive experience within the Blockchain markets to support Unityswap's business development process.

Unityswap is driven by the mission to realize a revolutionary way of digital fundraising in collaboration with charities that ensures that they are ready for the world of tomorrow.

Blockchain technology has created many opportunities for charities to discover new ways of fundraising. Unityswap helps charities with seizing these opportunities by creating their own token that generates donations with every transaction that is made.

Unityswap is forming a collective of charities that will use blockchain technology for fundraising. In addition to offering their tokenizing service, the platform will develop a NFT marketplace and a decentralized exchange with automated donation capabilities.

At the centre of their ecosystem is the Unityswap token ($UNITY), which is the driving force of the platform and enables more digital donation possibilities.
