

Los Angeles Times Festival of Books 2022 presents If the walls could talk

LOS ANGELES, CALIFORNIA, UNITED STATES, April 11, 2022

/EINPresswire.com/ -- Ciera Frederick's If the Walls Could Talk is a gripping novel that revolves around Zamyia and her struggles maturing into adulthood, especially as a person of color. Ciera will be part of Bookmarc Alliance's featured authors for the Los Angeles Times Festival of Books slated for April 23 & 24 at the University of Southern California.

The novel opens with a literal bang as the police bust through the door and arrests Xavier, Zamyia's boyfriend, for the death of London and Drew Mitchell. Early on, the narrative establishes London's relationship with Zamyia, she is a close friend of Zamyia in her college days. What could have led to this narrative development? What are the secrets the "walls" hold?

Ciera Frederick was born and raised in Merritt Island, FL and has been a passionate reader of urban literature for many years, which inspired her to begin writing and become a published author. In May 2016, she graduated with her Bachelor of Science degree in Health Care Administration Management. She worked her career in the medical field for the past 13 years, up until recently when she decided to chase her entrepreneurial dream and open her own braiding studio, NuCreations714 located in Cocoa, FL.

Interested readers may purchase their copy at Amazon, Barnes & Noble, and other online retailers.
