European Photography Awards is themed “Transcend Between Diversification”, revitalising the image of the industry with diversified submissions, allowing entrants to redefine their work based on their ardour.

Besides 8 international photography categories inclusive of Architecture Photography, Black & White Photography, Commercial Photography, Editorial Photography, Fine Art Photography, Nature Photography, People Photography, and Special Category, IAA has also implemented 4 country-specific categories, which are Germany Photography, Italy Photography, France Photography, and Switzerland Photography respectively.

The European Photography Awards is keen on implementing convenience as a vital trait, which comes to the availability of a basic submission process through the network. Besides the application of effortless image and description uploads, the entry rates are kept at a reasonable amount, at only €30 each for professionals and €25 per entry for amateur/student categories.

All entries are processed by esteemed juries who excel in their corresponding industries, promising credibility and reliability. Those who win the awards will receive titles of European Photographer of the Year, Category Winners of the Year, Platinum Winners, and Gold Winners. Besides the bestowing of titles, cash prizes will also be awarded, with €3,000 (Professional categories) and €2,000 (Amateur/Student categories) presented to the Photographer of the Year title, whilst an additional €100 will be presented to each Category Winner of the Year (for both Professional and Amateur/Student categories), with the desires of uplifting sensational talent through photography.

IAAs’ main intentions of the European Photography Awards is to praise and commemorate the artistries of worldwide photographers. As such, the European Photography Awards will commence its’ entry periods on April 13, 2022, while the final results will be revealed on August 19, 2022.
