God transformed his unmet need for love into a gift of reassurance that he shares with others. For McIntyre, "coffee shops became God's meeting places" where he could plant seeds of hope, offer a listening ear to the secluded and be accessible for the unplanned encounters God brought his way. McIntyre believes "God doesn't need our abilities to perform acts of service, just our availability."

Have you ever felt that your daily events could provide encourage for others?”

excerpt from Dennis McIntyre, Coffee Shop Ministries

The book is inspiring. Its thematic refrain is that nothing happens by chance and that God is caring for all of creation. The book's quiet, studied style is subject-matter appropriate, and its language is accessible and easily digested, keeping the message clear and uncomplicated. Incidents and episodes of friends in crisis, strangers who need someone to listen, or chance meetings that develop into more serious situations function in a story cycle, with the framing setting of the coffee shop holding them together and giving the book thematic unity. A native of Rochester, New York, Dennis A. McIntyre served as an electrical engineer and a technical writer for over 40 years before retiring. Since retirement, he has only focused on writing his pieces and books from 2008 until now. His main goal for writing involves drawing people into closer relationships with the Lord and one another.
