As an author, I am passionate about ensuring that all children have the opportunity to develop strong literacy skills. As an advocate, I know the depths of creativity literacy can offer.”

This event is all about the kids and will have kid-friendly red-carpet interviews, face painting, virtual reality and STEM activities, readings of books by authors, kid vendors, and more. It's also an excellent opportunity for parents to support Black and Brown authors and fill their children's rooms with books to instill a love of reading from an early age - providing them with the foundation they need to succeed in school and life.

While Dr. Pamela Gurley will have several of her multilingual Brown Girl and Brown Boy book series available for purchase and signing, other participating authors are Ashley G. Smith, author of "Makayla's Blues: Hip-Hop You Never Stop" and "Makayla's Blues: Hip-Hop Ninja Crew;" TeKenya Johnson, author of "Rosebud's Glow: Beauty In All Things;" Dawn Charleston-Green, author of "Heeey Dandelion!;" and five-year-old Eric T. Collins, Jr., author of "Plant-Based New Orleans." There will be additional local authors and vendors available as well. Specifically designed for kids to celebrate literacy, this is sure to be a day kids won't soon forget!

Sponsored by the Steven James Foundation, Bean Path, Livvy Zoe, Big Circle Music Group, Clark and Hill Enterprise, Black Authors Matter Tour; and a community partnership with the Jackson Fire Department, this event promises to be an exciting time for children.
