It will be possible to admire over 40 pieces of art, including NFT and digitized artworks, all set in a single art gallery, hosted by the Spatial Metaverse.

MILAN, ITALY, April 16, 2022

/EINPresswire.com/ -- After the success achieved at the presentation of his first NFT in Venice on the 2nd of April, the Italian artist Cesare Catania will officially open on 4th of May 2022 the exhibition of contemporary and digital art entitled "A Jump into the Universe". Starting at 12.30pm EST (4:30pm GMT) it will be possible to admire over 40 pieces of art, including NFT and digitized artworks, all set in a single art gallery, hosted by the Spatial Metaverse. By virtually accessing the exhibition, the visitor will have a totally immersive experience that will allow him to get in touch with works of the Artist and to interact directly and immediately with the other guests who will be present at the same time on the platform.

"This exhibition aims to be a point of passage from the real World to the Metaverse, a way of enhancing the visitor's emotions through digital art without distorting traditional art" Thus explains Cesare Catania.

With the possibility of building their own avatar, the visitor will easily access Cesare Catania's solo exhibition and will be able to experience his art, which blends tradition, innovation and technology. In fact, the artist is able to maintain his own recognizability through the different techniques used, a research that is constantly attentive to the most recent contemporary languages.

"A Jump into the Universe" will be presented to the press on Thursday 21 April 2022, from 11am
