GCC Halal Food Market Report

As the novel coronavirus (COVID-19) crisis takes over the world, we are continuously tracking the changes in the markets, as well as the industry behaviours of the consumers globally and our estimates about the latest market trends and forecasts are being done after considering the impact of this pandemic.

GCC Halal Food Market Trends:

The wide presence of the Muslim population who abide by the Islamic Shariah norms in the GCC region is primarily driving the market for halal food items. Moreover, the growing number of stringent regulatory frameworks for mandating halal certification is further strengthening the market growth. Besides this, the rising awareness towards food safety, hygiene, and reliability of these products among the Muslim and non-Muslim population in the region is also augmenting the demand for halal food items. Additionally, the expanding food retail sector and the increasing availability of halal food and beverages across multiple distribution channels are further bolstering the market growth. Besides this, several international brands are diversifying their product portfolios to cater to the religious beliefs of their regional consumers, thereby is expected to propel the market growth across GCC countries during the forecast period.
