The extensive product usage as a hair oil to promote hair health, growth, and shine is primarily driving the coconut oil market. Besides this, coconut oil is also utilized in body massages as it possesses antibacterial, anti-aging, anti-inflammatory, and antioxidant properties, which is further catalyzing the market growth. Moreover, the growing health consciousness among consumers is propelling the product demand in the food and beverage (F&B) industry owing to its low levels of unsaturated fatty acids and ability to maintain good cholesterol levels and reduce the risk of heart diseases. In line with this, coconut oil finds wide-ranging applications as a dietary fat in the preparation of filled milk, infant milk powder, ice cream, confectionery and bakery items, etc., which is also augmenting the global market. Furthermore, the inflating product utilization in the personal care, cosmetics, and chemical sectors is anticipated to fuel the coconut oil market in the coming years.
