A book of a collection of poems that tells with individuality, however it shares a collective story of quests that leads them to experience discrimination, rejection, friendship, loyalty, and finally acceptance. Some stories are not considered normal by society's standards, and it needs to fit where they need to belong. In that unending adventure, many things are to be discovered and someone will lead them.

"Inspiring, enriching, and truly loving. This is truly an awesome book, and I hope that this brings joy to everyone's hearts! I loved this book because it is empowering and deeply moving. It is empowering because it makes us realize that our differences are our superpowers. Once we realize this, we will soon understand that the judgment of others no longer matters. What we do and how we use our skills is much more important." — Goodreads Review.
