WESTON, FLORIDA, UNITED STATES, April 25, 2022

/EINPresswire.com/ -- Erin Smith and Tommy Smith of Weston, Florida continue their efforts helping local veterans, as they lead Project We Care, a family-based non-profit organization that works with the Veterans Administration Subsidized Housing program to connect with veterans of the armed services who are in need of household goods, food, clothing, and other necessities. The couple, who are also the parents of four children, founded Project We Care after recognizing a need in their community for assistance to veterans. "When we see a veteran in need, it's our duty to help," says Tommy Smith. "These men and women have given so much for our country, the least we can do is make sure they have what they need to get by."

Project We Care provides veterans with access to necessary resources like food, clothing, and household goods, as well as offering assistance with basic necessities. "Our goal is to make sure that no veteran falls through the cracks," says Erin Smith. "We want to help as many veterans as possible, and we won't stop until every veteran in need has been connected with the resources they need to thrive." Founded by Erin Smith and Tommy Smith, the main goal of Project We Care is to provide veterans with the best care upon returning home as they work to reacquaint into civilian society. One of the most effective ways to assist veterans in reacquainting has been to help them make their homes into peaceful places to recover physically and psychologically.

The Weston, Florida based non-profit has partnered with multiple organizations in order to make the most impact for veterans, including the Veterans Administration Subsidized Housing program. The VA Subsidized Housing program provides housing assistance to low-income veterans and their families. In addition to partnering with local organizations, Project We Care also relies on donations from individuals and businesses in order to continue their work assisting veterans. Many local businesses, such as All Year Cooling Weston, have joined in by providing monetary contributions as well as offering volunteer time and increasing awareness about Project We Care by wearing its logo and offering information inside their offices. “We are so grateful for the support we’ve received from our community,” says Tommy Smith. “It’s because of the generosity of others that we are able to do the work that we do.”

Regarding plans to expand their services and the reach of their operations, Tommy Smith commented, “We are always looking for ways to do more. We want to make sure that we are doing everything we can to help veterans, and we will continue to look for ways to expand our services. One of the first steps we plan to take is to increase our presence on social media so that we can reach more people and let them know about the work we are doing.”
