Organisation supporting refugees can use Speechly to converse in their native language with Ukraine and or Russian speaking refugees.

LONDON, LONDON, UNITED KINGDOM, April 26, 2022

/EINPresswire.com/ -- Speechly App today announces support for Ukrainian refugees arriving in countries around the world. As of 12th April, free 120-day licenses will be made available to any public and non-profit organisation supporting refugees who require Ukraine and or Russian translation services. This will include unlimited licenses, so over 100 nationalities can converse in real-time with Ukrainian and Russian speakers.

“

I hope the immediacy of the system allows refugees to receive the support they require without delay by overcoming language barriers and bolstering an organisations interpretation resource.”

James Haworth CEO, FITTS

Speechly App licenses are available free of charge for 120 days, to help organisations establish communication and welfare channels.

Simone Bini, Head of Channel at Speechly, said: “Our hearts go out to the people of Ukraine at this traumatic time. As a translation technology provider, the best way we can support them and the support agencies and organisations around the world who are welcoming them into their countries, is to ensure refugees do not have to worry about communicating and to receive the best help and support possible.”

Free Speechly App licenses are already being provided across many local authority locations in the UK, who are preparing to welcome refugees by installing the Speechly App within their established network of Jabra devices, used for telephone, online and onsite conference communication.

I hope the immediacy of the system allows refugees to receive the support they require without delay by overcoming language barriers and bolstering an organisations interpretation resource."

About Speechly

Speechly is an innovative company that aims to solve one of the biggest problems of our globalised world: real-time translation.

Governments, businesses and international organisations are spending vast sums of money on live interpreters, as the only way to provide real-time translation.

Speechly was launched in September 2020 and is deployed in numerous UK public sector organisations to provide a lower cost and more timely translation service for greater control of their services and resources.

Speechly benefits any organisation where interaction with people who speak different languages is required, and provides an immediate solution to better serve customers and community. This is especially invaluable for education providers as well as policing and emergency clinical care services.
