“We were looking for a worldwide solution to help manage Health & Safety and Environment from the shop floor,” said Sebastien Amice, project manager for the Lactalis Group. Nicolas Incarnato, head of group risk management, added, “The purpose of the project was to make the life of the shop-floor manager easier, so that they could focus more on assessing and managing risk and spend less time on administrative tasks.”

At the end of the day, we don't want just a tool for the manager. All of the employees of Lactalis should be able to easily input relevant information and declare any accidents or events”

Nicolas Incarnato, Head of Group Risk Management

“At the end of the day, we don't want just a tool for the manager. All of the employees of Lactalis should be able to easily input relevant information and declare any accidents or events,” shared Nicolas Incarnato. Recognizing the importance of activating employees to drive real change and performance, the dairy company will deploy Cority's mobile application, myCority, to capture these data points and empower their workforce to play an important part in their global health and safety initiatives.

With 270 production sites in 52 countries around the world, an additional key requirement was the ability for the Lactalis Group to efficiently integrate and consolidate the amount of data being logged and tracked onsite as well as provide better reporting for analysis and visibility. They also needed a solution that enabled them to integrate newly acquired business units quickly.

The solutions needed to be simple and easy to use, focused on continuous improvements, and able to support the growth of the organization.

Lactalis selected several integrated solutions from the Company's responsible business platform, CorityOne, including incident and risk management, audit and inspections, ESG (Environmental Social Governance) management, and sustainability performance.
