start-up began, and today that business now sports staff with over 50 years of combined industry experience in the marketing sector.

Sprint Data Solutions Worldwide Marketing jumped into the marketing industry during a transitional period. While dominant, traditional marketing techniques like print or television advertising continued to sway, new forms, like digital marketing, were already showing promise as potential game-changers. The company's entry point was direct mail, which had the welcome benefit of imparting critical lessons about data acquisition, management, and analytics.

As it had in other industries, digital proved to be a new major contender in the marketing sector. Still, the company was in the right place and time to use its data-management experience and integrate digital marketing services into its wheelhouse. This created an early mover advantage for the company that benefited itself and the clients served.

Today, Sprint Data Solutions Worldwide Marketing has expanded far beyond its initial operating range of only the hometown of Las Vegas, Nevada. Service now covers all of the United States, including Alaska and Hawaii. For businesses wanting to go past the border and sell to the rest of the continent, databases for Canada and Mexico are also available. And for those companies ready to go international, it's possible to cross the Atlantic and enter markets in the European Union like France.

The Travel Industry Is Turning Around

One of the most significant casualties of the global pandemic was tourism and travel. It's no surprise, considering that air, bus, and train travel put all passengers at risk of exposure since these were confined spaces that raised the risk of infection. However, the worst of the pandemic is behind us, and many people are gearing up to resume recreational travel once again. A crucial segment of this is people who have bought into timeshare properties where they share a residence with other time shareowners but can use and inhabit that residence when they've booked and cleared it with the other owners.

Enthusiast travelers in general and time-share owners in particular present golden marketing opportunities. People who have invested in a time-share property already commit to regular travel to a specific destination, as evidenced by their willingness to share time in fixed property. This indicates a need to regularly purchase travel-related products and services and an interest in the areas and businesses in which the time-share property is located. For the right companies, having access to data of time-share owners, or just travel enthusiasts in general, can lead to a surge in interest for the right marketing strategies, coupled with much higher rates of engagement and response.

Locating The Right Time-Share Investors

Sprint Data Solutions Worldwide Marketing has databases for enthusiast travelers and time-share owners throughout the United States. Those lists are also available if a marketing opportunity is more appropriate for a particular faith, such as practicing Mormon time-share investors. It's even possible to reach out only to time-share investors or travelers who only meet a specific income level, such as high net worth individuals. Mailing addresses are a standard provision, but additional contact data is always available. Email addresses can be provided for digital marketing campaigns, telephone numbers are available for telemarketing needs, and even SMS/Text-based marketing can be accommodated with cellular phone numbers included on request.
