and CEO of Govenda*

release of its Board Success Platform bridges the gap between Corporate Secretaries and their board members, with unprecedented transparency into board book creation and updates. Board members can easily track the documents that need to be reviewed, and use direct links to view them, for every meeting. Combined with the previous release of Govenda's Member Engagement tools, both board members and corporate secretaries can take the action required to ensure successful meetings.

"Our newest enhancements to Govenda's board member application demonstrate our commitment to solving problems and saving time for busy board members," said Marion Lewis, Co-Founder and CEO of Govenda. "By listening carefully to the challenges our customers face, Govenda continues to create easy-to-use solutions that simplify highly complex problems."

Preparing for board meetings is a constant challenge for all participating members. Frequent updates and rapidly changing agendas create significant obstacles to ensuring that everyone has read the latest materials. With a combination of smart bookmarks, updated file counts, and a system that knows the difference between a major update that needs to be reviewed by everyone and an update that simply corrects a spelling error, Govenda truly allows boards to focus on what matters most.
