

Attestiv Selected as Finalist for MIT Sloan CIO Symposium's Innovation Showcase

NATICK, MASSACHUSETTS, UNITED STATES, May 5, 2022 /

EINPresswire.com/ -- The 19th annual MIT Sloan CIO Symposium recently announced Attestiv as one of the ten finalists for the 2022 Innovation Showcase as its digital media analysis and validation platform represents a cutting edge solution that provides both strong value and innovation to the enterprise IT space. Attestiv will receive key exposure to many of the world's most creative and influential IT executives at the Symposium May 22-23, 2022.

"The MIT CIO Symposium brings together the most innovative IT leaders to discuss this year's exciting new technologies. We are proud to have been chosen as a Finalist for the Innovation Showcase," said Nicos Vekiarides, Attestiv CEO and co-founder.

Attestiv's SaaS platform ensures the authenticity and originality of digital photos, videos and documents for a variety of businesses including insurance, healthcare, automotive and IT. Using patented blockchain technology and AI analysis, Attestiv tamper-proofs and validates photos, videos and documents at the point of capture or via AI analysis in real-time, generating automated reports and alerts for customers.

"We are honored to recognize these finalists for the 2022 Innovation Showcase," said Anton Teodorescu, Chair of the Innovation Showcase. "Opportunities abound for these early-stage companies to form valuable partnerships with CIOs at the Symposium as their innovative technologies can help shape the future of business."

After careful consideration, the Innovation Showcase Judges evaluated and selected Attestiv for this honor based on four important criteria:

- Have an enterprise IT solution product available in the market;
- Are a start-up with less than $10 million in 2021 annual revenues;
- Are selling enterprise IT solutions to CIOs or corporate IT departments; and
- Show innovation and/or strategic value and potential impact on the top and/or bottom lines.
