

It's National Nurses Week and Your 3-Minute Post on THE NURSES WALL Honors the World's 20+ Million Unsung Hero Nurses

It's free. Takes very little time. Yet to nurses, their perceived value of your brief 'thank you' message posting on THE NURSES WALL is priceless!

PACIFIC PALISADES, CA, UNITED STATES, May 7, 2022 /

EINPresswire.com/ -- Inspired and developed in 2019, THE NURSES WALL is a virtual gift created for people to share their appreciation for the world's 20+ million unsung hero nurses with simple, 'thank you' message postings. The plan was to present this gift during 2020's "Year of the Nurse" celebration.

It's built - Come fill it!

Covid-19 stole that celebration while, at the same time, ironically creating a bright revealing spotlight that brought unprecedented public and media focus upon frontline, Covid battling nurses.

While there are many stories -- some unbelievable and shocking -- behind Operation Scrubs and THE NURSE WALL gift, what's immediately relevant is THE NURSES WALL was built, tested, and is now ready and capable of accepting millions of nurse-appreciative message postings during this current May 6-12 National Nurses Week celebration. The link/website address where nurse-appreciative messages can now become part of this historic nurse-thanking mission is <https://thenurseswall.org>.

Noteworthy and addressed by THE NURSES WALL creator, Pamela Jane Nye is, "There's no commercial advertising or sponsorship involved with this mission. Operation Scrubs staff and I are all volunteers. And to the world's 20+ million nurses, the perceived value of your message postings is priceless. So why would anyone say no?"

How many postings does Nye anticipate? What if the number is significantly less? And what's Nye's minimum expectation?

"Once you know and recognize how few people or companies it takes to communicate with and recruit a billion people," Nye explains, "simple math tells you the message posting goal that would be great to achieve is not only possible, it's predictable. Billion is also an attention-getting number.

For the nurses, however, it's not about specific numbers. It's about people, however many or few, who cared enough to give their time to say 'thank you' which alone is an infinite gift for all nurses to read and enjoy.

Minimum expectation? I know there are 250+ million adults in America and 4+ billion globally. Given there are 20+ million registered nurses and midwives worldwide, as a nurse, I believe any nurse would be excited and overwhelmed knowing THE NURSES WALL contained postings that equal or exceed the total number of the world's registered nurse population."

“

There's no cost to participate. It takes very little time. And to the world's 20+ million nurses, the perceived value of THE NURSES WALL message postings are priceless. Why would anyone say no?"
