Bosch Films, in association with Kreate Productions, are proud to announce the worldwide release of the Lyme disease documentary, "The Monster Inside Me", on May 20th, 2022. Directed by first-time director and producer Tony C. Silva alongside producers Frances Cecilia, Paull Cho (Tallulah, The Angriest Man In Brooklyn), Hill Harper (ABC's The Good Doctor), and Ryan Ryker Martin. The film was a semi-finalist at the 2021 Academy Awards.

"The Monster Inside Me" is a documentary that follows a couple who bravely turn the camera on themselves to reveal an intimate and groundbreaking perspective on Lyme Disease. They take the viewer on an emotional journey researching the truth, lies and healing behind our modern era's most misunderstood chronic illness and controversial pandemic, affecting more than 150 million people worldwide.

Film Data: 105 Minutes, Color, DCP, Aspect: 1.85, Sound: Dolby SRD, Language: English Website with trailer: <https://www.themonsterinsideme.com>

From a statement by the filmmakers Tony C. Silva and Frances Cecilia: "Our film explores the vulnerability of the victims of Lyme disease. It exposes the incompetence of the CDC, the Center for Disease Control, whilst following the human story of families impacted by the cruelty of day-to-day life with this overlooked disease."

"We're proud to debut The Monster Inside Me from our upcoming slate of Prominent Media Group productions. We are thrilled to present this to a global stage to advocate for all those who are impacted by this misconstrued illness. In addition to educating the public, we intend to champion this cause worldwide. It must be seen by sufferers and those who don't know anything about it, as well as educating the public, on a global scale", said producers Hill Harper and Paull Cho in a written statement.
