The rising star’s music is unique because it cannot be categorized into just one category and set aside. ABOUT

MoanDG, a resident of a small town in Eastern North Carolina, is inexplicably connected with music since childhood with music production becoming one of the artist's main family activities; a fond hobby shared with cousins and uncles. It is in this way that music forms the core of the artist's being.

It is this authenticity that MoanDG promises fans and listeners all around.

The rising star simply wishes for this music to become a gateway to success only to help family and friends escape hard times with some finality. The musician strongly gives in giving back to both family and the community at large and thus supports smaller emerging artists with extraordinary zeal. It is these virtues and goals that set MoanDG apart from all others!
