MARKHAM, ONTARIO, CANADA, May 10, 2022 /EINPresswire.com/ -- HRU Mortgage Investment Corp., an alternative mortgage investment provider and lender, has unveiled its new mortgage trading platform called ClearLending, releasing Summer 2022 in Canada. This is the very first time in the industry where a lending firm has broken into the fintech space and developed mortgage trading for its clients, as opposed to traditional lenders who solely offer investment services.

“We are excited to announce our newest flagship mortgage trading platform ClearLending,” said Michael Xia, Chief Investment Officer for HRU Mortgage Investment Corp. “This is a game changer in the industry and provides our clients with additional options to diversify through mature capital markets.”

Mortgage investing and alternative mortgage lending have traditionally been limited to the general public and kept almost secretive for most people outside the industry. HRU is opening the door to full transparency, and having all the knowledge and information clear for view, so that clients can learn and invest freely through the mortgage trading platform.

ClearLending will be available for pilot testing in Ontario, with other markets to come soon after.
